

Microsound Access Control System (PC Based)

Product Description

The aim of this product is to keep track of what time an employee arrives and leaves each working day. The system will also be used to keep track of who enters and leaves the building each day and at what time.

The system must monitor all doors and save each employees name, time of entry and current date in a database. The system must check if the employee is valid and whether the employee has access to the building. If the employee doesn't have access the employee wouldn't be allowed in the building.
